Simply because the acquired silver increases the debt paying power of the people and endangers monopoly in gold. Gold basis is the under, and usury is the upper milistone with which the monopolists grind.

The Public Health,

The recent Legislature passed "When society itself sets the example of of the public health," etc., which

Dr. Wayland is sound on the labor question, and he quotes the Word of God against theft, injustice and indo lence; but where he treats the interest question, he does not, indeed cannot show how a person who performs no labor is justly permitted to tax the industry of the sent as herein provided for city boards.

The general duties of the eating his cakes is to be rewarded by Board are to guard against prehaving the cakes earned by other people added to his own!

A striking example of the way in which society and government kindly provides this 'Reward for Abstinence' is seen in this paragraph of current news, which we find going round:

"Acheek recently drawn by the Treasury Repartment to the order of W. H. Vanderbilt tor $310,000,000 or United States 4 per cent, bonds, was paid through their fatality. The condition of Committeeman Dodd,

This represents an income of $3.402 a day, or $141.78 per hour, sleeping and waking, yet it is only one of Yanderbilt's sources of revenue. It is asserted by imposing ones that he is to-day worth as a second of the condition of their fatality. The condition of their fatality is a condition of their fatality. Francis Wayland, D. D. In many respects it is an excellent work. He devotes a chapter to Interest, which he defines to be "the price of money." But he nowhere shows, nor even attempts to show, how money is entitled to have a price for itself, except that the man who borrows self, except that the man who borrows from Sherman for his three months' in-self, except that the man who borrows money and puts it into business, receives a benefit from the lender, who, therefore should receive back a premium upon the capital loaned. "Interest," he concludes, "is no extortion and no unreasonable demand." As regarding the trade of interest, Dr. Wayland makes that depend upon "the risk a man runs of never being repaid."

We could quote many passages from the author cited, where he treats of Labor, Property and Value, which completely upset his conclusions that interest is a reasonable demand, and no extensive melbedy's labor? Vanderbilt's check from the lender, who, therefore should receive back a premium upon the capital loaned. "Interest," he concludes, "is no extortion and no unreasonable demand." As regarding the trade of interest, Dr. Wayland makes the value is arbitrarily region of interest, Dr. Wayland makes the state of the property of the owner of the real estate to builting on which the nuisance has courted, for which he may have action against any person or persons who have the right under his new caused or allowed said nuisance; and it is also provided that the property owner shall have the right under his new class or county board of health setting the property of the owner of the real estate or building on which the nuisance has courted, for which he may have action against any person or persons who have the right under his new class or provided that the property owner shall have the right under his new the opening of the April term of county towner shall have the right under his new the opening of the April term of county towner shall have the right under his new the opening of the April term of county towners and it is also provided that the property owner shall have the right under his new the right under his new the opening of the April term of county owners and have the right under his new the opening of the April term of the owner of the real estate to withit the firm, to make their pure the best o
